AI Agent

This is a fully installation application that installs and runs a single agent file (script) on the recipient's PC. When a user installs an AI Agent, they can quickly create their own Agent from scratch, in a matter of seconds. In a matter of seconds, an AI Agent will begin to run, to acquire knowledge and information to store it on your recipient's computer. You can build many different Agents, each with their own set of capabilities, environment, and setup. In addition, you can save the Agents to the hard drive and print them out, for use later. Once your Agent is built, you can clone, import, and merge these Agents with other Agents to create the ultimate living encyclopedia. AI Agent Tutorial: 1. Run the Download Setup file, which installs the Agent on the recipient's computer and starts it 2. Open the Send Agent file, browse to the location of the Agent files, select a name, and save it 3. Upon sending, the Agent will be downloaded to the Recipient's computer. The recipient will have the option to merge or clone the Agent if they want The Agents will be ready to go, and you can see your Agent running on the recipient's desktop, all ready to learn from and share information with other Agents. Below are the licensing and usage information: Program License: End User License Agreement: Usage: Each agent is purchased separately, one license per agent. Multiple agents can be accessed with a single program license. The Agents work with all operating systems (Windows and Mac) and languages (English and German). Agent licensing is intended to allow you to share and transfer the Agent to others for educational and non-commercial usage. If you want to use an agent for commercial purposes, please purchase an agent license. If this license isn't right for you, try a trial license that includes either an unlimited number of agents or all agents for 2 hours. Yes, you can use a trial license if you wish to use a single agent to try it out for a couple of hours. If your trial license expires, you will need to purchase a license.
