It can also be used to store other toys that are subsequently played with, as opposed to, say, a traditional toy box. Hence, a sandbox is the ideal learning environment for exploring building and construction projects, and is often used in construction toys to open up new realms of play. Sandboxes can be built in almost any style, and while some have moving parts, most work with simple levers to transfer force from one side of the sandbox to the other. Use the sandbox as a simple hopper to pour feed into and a counter-hopper to sort items into, or go deeper and design your own sandpile animals, toy animals, castles, and other structures. The sandbox also makes a great dumping bin and bin liner in a pinch.
