Q: powershell how to get the application from the path PowerShell: 5.1 OS: Windows 10 x64 I have some Excel files in my C:\Program Files\Microsoft Office and I want to get the application name for each file. Is there a way to do this? How to get the application name? A: I have some Excel files in my C:\Program Files\Microsoft Office and I want to get the application name for each file. The simplest way to get that information would be to use the $prog variable from the WMI object Win32_Product. It contains all the information about the Microsoft Office suite (including Excel) - see this MSDN page for more details. 4:52 p.m. Ed Jones was selected with the 30th pick in the first round. (Nathaniel S. Butler/Getty Images) NFL draft: Oklahoma linebacker Jordan Phillips Oklahoma LB Jordan Phillips (6-1, 243) is a physical outside linebacker who can rush the quarterback. He has the ability to knock down passes and adjust to the offensive scheme. He is a solid tackler with a plus-natural instincts. He can be an asset in run support, but he is better at setting the edge when rushing the quarterback or allowing him to make the tackle on an outside pass rusher. Phillips has the size and athleticism to play inside in the NFL, but he will be best on the weak side. He has the ability to play on passing downs, but he needs to become a better pass defender. Phillips is a solid run defender who will be an asset in the middle of a defense. He will have to improve his awareness to be an NFL starter on defense. Phillips is a fast, big, physical linebacker who is well-built. He is more of a downhill player at this stage of his career, but he could develop into a three-down linebacker. He is a team that is picking late in the second round, and they are getting a solid NFL prospect who has the size and football IQ to be an impact player right away. He will have a chance to play on defense and special teams, but he is more likely to be a rotational player at this point. NFL draft: North Carolina State QB Jacoby Brissett North Carolina State QB Jacoby Brissett (6-2, 199) is a smart, big-bodied, accurate quarterback with good arm

Want to make your own fabric wallet? Check out the tutorial at The Spoonflower Blog. These are the hand embroidered fabric wallets I made for a friend. The Spoonflower Blog also has many other hand sewing tutorials that I'm planning on trying out in the coming days. If any of you have ideas, please let me know! I'm always interested in seeing new sewing projects. If you'd like to see what's in the box that Lucy gave me at Craftsy, check out my post on that here. Also, check out the Craftsy blog for some tips on how to put an album together. It's really cool to see the finished products. I've even made a wooden picture frame for one of the prints. I LOVE the Bridget Rose and am so excited to try to match colors. I do love how the Davy Crockett came out and hope I'm able to reproduce a similar print! And the goosebumps…must have that one! Thanks for stopping by!Southern Region (Argentina) Southern Region (official name: Región del Sur) or Greater Buenos Aires, is a regional administration of Argentina in the Buenos Aires Province, part of the Consejo de Primera Infancia (Children First Council), a division of the Argentine government. The region is administered by a President and a Vice President who are elected for a four-year term. This region, and the regional capital city of Mar del Plata, have been historically known as "the metropolitan area of Buenos Aires". History On 22 January 1903, a work law for a regional government for this area was approved by the governor and was in force since the next year. On 11 June 1910, the Buenos Aires Legislature approved the Regional Constitution
