ZPlague is a team-based zombie-shooter game in which 2-5 players fight against each other using all weapons, skills, and items. The arena is a small enclosed area of intense, realistic zombie-infested conditions. Hundreds of slow zombies (weak and deaf) and fast zombies (strong, intelligent, and very persistent) run towards the player. The first to reach the player loses and is then infected. Play online multiplayer against other players or against zombies. In the course of the game, players win weapons and items. Players are able to survive the action with weapons and items. A skill system increases player experience and helps all players survive. Unlike other zombie-shooters, ZPlague does not use traditional skills. Only with a well planned strategy, many items, skills, and weapons can help the player survive in this zombie-infested situation. ZPlague - Play it now at We are in the ZPLAGUE hit store now! That was my son's initial reaction when I showed him the upcoming 2017 Issue of Motion Magazine. Our son, Ilyas, has a wide assortment of hobbies, such as basketball, video games, singing, swimming, and surfing. So it's no surprise he is also a staunch skateboarder. Looking through the feature on skateboarding in Motion, I was especially interested to see the photos and videos of skate parks and local skateboards because our family decided to make a trip to skateboard mecca, California for a US trip in February 2017. So far, I have been around a few skate parks around the California Bay Area, and I am looking forward to the experience with my son. I am posting my comments and thoughts here. One of the incredible highlights I saw in Motion is the skate videos section. Motion has a professional skateboarding team that I am looking forward to follow and support. I hope that I will be able to share with my kids that not only sport makes you money but that having a "Style" is part of the artistic quotient. And that's

Puzzling is a game made for puzzling; designed to be simple, quick and fun - just like a real-life puzzle. Part puzzle, part logic puzzle, part strategy game, each puzzle has a wide range of unique settings to explore. We are happy to announce the first never-before-released expansion pack, Quadrantica. This second expansion pack, named after a puzzle type, will add a new fields of 9 additional puzzle types, and new power and move restrictions. You can find the new puzzles (and audio tracks!) on the Quadrantica page (www.puzzling.com/quadrantica). If you do not like the sounds of Quadrantica, we have an alternative puzzle type called Chained which is in the menu. Your task is to connect fields of blocks in a sequence that allows you to light a lightbulb. After connecting all blocks, you can un-light the light bulb. The whole puzzle can be toggled with R key. You can switch between fields with the F key. If you have an RTS background you might enjoy this. If you just want to test your puzzle solving skills, this is a simple puzzle type and will provide you with a lot of fun. If you like grid puzzles this is a puzzle where you are searching for some order in a 9x9 grid. To light the bulb you should find a field which can be connected with one or more blocks. To un-light the bulb you should not find a field anymore. published:28 Oct 2010 views:181574 Let us Help Students Succeed. Earn Badges with Your Smartphone! Demonic classes in the Grimoire have a lot of strengths and weaknesses, but the majority are quite balanced. By removing the Warlock's physical resistances, it is a solid class choice to take over the role of Scatter Gun. Being a demonic class, and an exorcist at that, has its own set of bonuses. Whenever you are in possession, your movement speed is increased by 10%, and you have a chance to stun enemies for 2 seconds if you hit them. Being a priest does not seem to have an effect on this bonus. Psychic classes, as previously mentioned, can take a very long time to unlock the full potential of their abilities. Since you can boost your Psychic class when you are at level 80, it is a powerful choice if you are struggling to gain an advantage. Other classes have a strong advantage in some areas, for example Elemental Shamans are a decent ranged DPS option, but are at a huge disadvantage against melee. On the other hand, if you go with a Warlock, it can be very effective with the right Talent Tree, but can be highly situational. All of these are viable choices and you should test them out yourself. In the end, it's all about finding what works best for you. This content will be delivered automatically to your mailbox. If you do not receive this content, please contact us at support@alliedmods.com. Skill Feedback Systems In previous iterations of each expansion, the skill systems were very simple. The character simply had five attributes and five skills that are used to determine their damage potential. Since 1.0, players are able to choose from skill trees and talent options to increase the overall effectiveness of each skill. Each class now has multiple ways to improve the effectiveness of their skills. For example, the Warlock class used to only have three skill choices, Warlock's Horror, but now has six. This is done to give players more customization options. You can find a detailed list of the existing skill choices for each class here: Classes from 1.0 Monk: Block, Heavy Armor, Shield Wall, Dodge, Hand to Hand, U-turn Mage: Arcane Missiles, Blast Wave, Firebolt, Frost Nova, Frostwall, Lightning Bolt, Teleport Monk: Block, Heavy Armor, Shield Wall

What's new:

, the company behind Arena of Valor, Skytorn and more, is bringing its consumer-focused VR headset to developers next month. According to VentureBeat, Wonder Controllers for Arena of Valor are set to arrive in December for $8.99 on Amazon. There are two controllers, which can be used individually or in conjunction with the headset to let you participate in PvP matchmaking. They're designed to be lightweight and comfortable to wear during extended sessions. There's a touchpad on one side that would be easy to navigate with a finger or thumb, and despite only being a relatively small piece of plastic, the peripherals are said to be extremely sturdy. That's when it started getting interesting again. Over the past couple of years, Vive preorders have topped 250,000. The headset came with some base-level VR games as part of the launch, while the company is currently preparing to release the SteamVR-supported Oculus Rift and the Facebook-owned Oculus Touch controllers. HTC also promised that Valve's SteamVR would be upgraded to support both its Vive and Vive Pro hardware over time. Now, all of that looks to be changing. It's the day before the January 24th VRDC conference, which is being held in Las Vegas. VRDC typically hosts people from the Vive subreddit, Steam's Vive community hub, and Valve, and the types of announcements that are made there have thus far been connected to hardware. Today, though, a selection of people who are familiar with the Vive and Vive Pro commented on Reddit and said that they'd seen Valve-related products being briefly displayed at the trade show. Screenshot "Another positive thing about the visit was one of the booth guys said there would be a HTC [Vive Pro] booth again this year," one user who was at the conference said in a message to The Verge. "It's not next week, but maybe sometime during the year." While Vive has HTC-made hardware, Valve is a software company that has made its own hardware before — namely, the original HTC Vive, which came with SteamVR support. In the past, though, it's typically not been clear if that included both headsets. If Valve has its own headset in the works — a headset we've heard it might be testing internally — the hardware versions of that headset and the Vive Pro would be in

Built for extreme off-road scenarios, the rugged terrain of the off-road sandbox of MudRunner provides a challenging but adrenaline-pumping experience. You'll need to master all types of driving to survive the constant back and forth and uphill runs to reach the finish line. With the new map "The Valley" (downloadable for a limited time only) you'll be able to drive through an interesting and varied landscape. Its huge canyons, oceans of trees and lakes are guaranteed to challenge even the best drivers. As you've probably already noticed, MudRunner isn't like any other off-road game, so prepare for an experience that's all about balance, strategy and... misjudgment. In the free version of the game you'll be able to drive, race and explore the new map, "The Valley", while unlocking parts and tools. New vehicles and parts are available, but the game features a freemium monetization scheme that will allow you to enjoy the full experience of the game for free. =====

UNIQUE GUARDIAN RULES Guardian is an award-winning game that rewards players and developers in equal measure. Guardian is a unique cooperative sandbox in which two teams of 5 players each compete to gather items and complete mission objectives while cooperating in the pursuit of the best adventure experience possible. As a player, you benefit from being able to earn great game time and currency simply by playing. Everything is provided to you for free, and you don't have to spend a single cent on your adventure. Just because you don't have to spend money doesn't mean that you have to passively watch your progress be gradually drained away by someone else, though. Once your account is created, you will be eligible for the Reserves - special account-wide currency that can be used for a whole host of purchasing options. As a developer, you get compensation for your hard work, as well as significant marketing opportunities. In order to protect the integrity of the game experience for all players, Guardian doesn't have any in-app purchases. We understand that there's a point at which you'll need to spend real money and we do not make any profit from the sale of in-game currency. We know it feels a bit artificial that you can't unlock something that you spent your very own money on, but as a player, Guardian rewards you for being a good person. You buy items in the game through special Guardian Challenges, and as part of these
