Q: Rails 3, best way to migrate to another file extension So for my Rails 3 project, I like to keep things modular, so I have created a 'views' directory, within my 'app' directory (which holds my 'controllers, models, etc.' etc). My question is: what is the best way to migrate from my old style view files (.html.erb) to the new style.jade?

I'm guessing that I can't just change the extension of the view to.jade, because like I mentioned, I keep things modular, and the only things that do not work with.jade would be what relates to Rails, controllers etc... What is the best practice way to do this? Thanks.

A: You can change the default view engine for Rails 3 by calling the new engine in your application.rb: `config.view_paths` El Nino is the weather phenomenon that heats the Pacific Ocean off the coast of South America, causing wild weather across the planet.
