Biography Kessler was born in Saint Petersburg, Russia, the daughter of Russian music critic, composer and conductor Anton Besarab. She was educated at Moscow Conservatory, where she studied piano and composition, and graduated from the pedagogical institute in Saint Petersburg. From 1912-1914, Kessler was the daughter-in-law of Aleksandr Fyodorov, a leading Russian pianist and composer, then the director of the Imperial Bolshoi Theatre in Saint Petersburg, and from 1914-1919, Kessler was the wife of Arturo Toscanini, then conductor of the Chicago Symphony Orchestra. Kessler's first book, Beloved Friends: An Anthology of Letters from Gertrude Stein to Alice B. Toklas was published in 1994. Her best known work is The Good Fairy and Other Stories (1926), featuring her well-known illustration of "The Good Fairy and the Hornet." Her book was illustrated by W. Armstrong Dunlop. I am using Mysql 5.1 for php and javascript. A: It sounds like you are looking for validation, namely the ability to display a dialog box containing a form for a user to fill out, and to check if that form contains one or more of the fields you are searching for when you retrieve a record from the DB. You can use the PHP procedural language (rather than javascript) to present the validation. Once you have a record returned from the DB, you would perform the check. If you need to retrieve the records in the DB, you may need to query that first (by whatever means you normally search the DB), then perform the validation, and then perform your query. Otherwise, search to search is just a DB search, and is generally performed by the underlying database. Once it has been performed, results are passed back to the javascript, which then takes some action on them (depending on what the form is actually doing). If you need to control the record being passed back (if you are passing the record back in some other format besides a simple ISON string), you have two options. Either use an AJAX request, or a javascript object, and then pass that through as the JSON string. You can also write your javascript to run asynchronously (using onlick to run an event that will run the javascript which does the retrieval, then check it) and you can also use other events in the form to perform the guery. The easiest option (due to the synchronous nature of javascript) is using the form "onsubmit" event. The javascript needed would be something like: function isAllowed(tag) { var tag = document.getElementById(tag);
