Poem "Kuttippuram Palam" describing the beauty of the Bharathappuzha River in Kerala, translated as "Bridge of Peace". The bridge was built in 1953 by the order of Subedar Prasad Veerapatnam. It was the first bridge in the state built since the colonial period. It connected two villages in the village of Kumbakonam, where about 2,000 people now live. During heavy rains, which are extremely frequent here, the bridge is sometimes washed away.
